

August 2023 – The Artichoke on The Green in Croxley Green

Many thanks to Paul Wray who organised today's walk which took us on a local favourite, The Croxley Green Boundary Walk.

18 members enjoyed a slightly shortened version (the whole walk is around six and a half miles, it was a rather humid day and the pub was beckoning!) which takes you from the Green past the rather sad sight of the building site around Killingdown Farm down Little Green Lane with its lovely views over the recently harvested fields to Rousebarn Lane.

The walk then goes up and over and down to the canal from where you can either go through to Common Moor and along the Ebury Way towards Rickmansworth or continue along the canal and back to The Green via Croxley Hall wood.

The Artichoke provided an excellent lunch.
